

Name : Keyur Patel

Roll No : 16010421073

MNCC - Nine Laws of personal development.

Write an essay in 200 - 300 words “On the need of Character”.

Character is important because it defines who we are and how we behave. Consider it as our inner guide, assisting us in making wise decisions and treating people with respect. When we have good character, we are trustworthy, kind, and responsible.

Character is especially important when things get tough. It gives us the strength to face challenges and keep going, even when it's hard. When people around us show strong character during difficult times, it inspires everyone to stay strong and work together.

In our communities, character is like the glue that holds us together. When we can trust and rely on each other, everything works better. Whether at school, work, or with friends, people with good character contribute positively to the group. They're the ones you can count on.

The need of character is important in different aspects of life for example:

- In the Workplace:

Consider a colleague who is consistently responsible, respectful, and collaborative. Their good character contributes to a positive work environment where everyone feels valued and can rely on each other to get the job done efficiently.

- In Education:

In a classroom, a student who is diligent, respectful, and helpful to peers contributes positively to the learning environment. Their good character sets an example for others, creating a classroom atmosphere that is conducive to learning and cooperation.

So, in simple terms, the need for character is like the need for a moral compass. It helps us be good people, build strong communities, and face challenges with courage. As we go through life, having good character makes everything better for us and those around us.